It doesn't appear there is much interest but I'll update the thread.

I'm planning on moving the dates back one week. Shooting for May 4th - May 11th. The continued below normal temps have me thinking that the hatches will be pushed back a bit. This time last year, the rivers were low and water temps had already gotten into the high 50's / 60 degrees. The rivers have a good bit more water in this year and the water temps are in the 33-35 range.

Not sure who is coming but I'll assume we have....

Sound off if you are interested. A head count / plan of attack would be helpful.
