My impression is he's talking about salt water fishing, at least it says so in the first sentence, I clean my line a couple of times a year, but I don't pull out 90 feet of line to do it.

I put my line in a sink with warm water and detergent slosh it around, get a soapy sponge and clean the line by pulling it through the sponge. I then rinse the line a couple of times in clean warm water.

I've a friend that has used Armourall for years.
