PennKev.....is the Ligature knot the name of the knot i was trying to describe in my post? Never knew the name of it if it is.....see , i'm 57 years old and learn somethingg new on here almost everyday.

I was thinking that when I read your post. It is much easier to demonstrate and actually tie, than it is to describe.

Interestingly, I've also seen the ligature knot referred to as...

... A SURGEON'S KNOT!

But it is not the same knot we would identify as a surgeon's knot.

Groan.
