Some my best days on the river took place, while fishing from a mahogany driftboat that was built by my good friend. Not long after he retired the boat, I had planned to build another. However, I had neither the time or place.

Building your own boat can be enjoyable and rewarding. Furthermore, you will never forget the days spent on the river in your hand built boat. If you have the time and ambition, go for it. Here are some links for good advise and information:
