I have a very personal connection with Dick's Sporting Goods and I will tell you those waders suck. I owned a pair for a month(first pair of waders) and they leaked along the inside seam--both legs. Took them back and they were replaced no questions asked. Second pair lasted maybe 2-3 months before the seams leaked again. Those waders just suck, plain and simple. I think your problem is with the product and not the company.

I second the other opinions on purchasing the higher end waders. They fit better, last longer, and they keep you dry.
