Good input Jack. My VP was the one pushing the patent mainly. I will be having rigorous testing of the finished product by myself and a few other. I have one member lined up for the "testing" phase. It will be a while of testing by myself to ensure 100% satisfaction.

Great point about having multiple products out there to be tested. Every guy is different in their preferences and is why I started this thread in the first place, because what works for me may not work for others.
