The Kettle Creek watershed-whether its the big Kettle (in the summer, great for SMB!!!!), or the tiny trips/little Kettle, I love it. I cut my FFing teeth there, and it'll always be special to me because of that. The Pine Creek valley is a close second.

Still, I find myself drawn to my home waters in Lancaster County. Silty mess that they are, I love that I can go 15 minutes in either direction and satisfy my craving for brookies, wild browns, and all the warm water action I could ever want.
