PaulG same here. When I go my friends know where to put me. Clarks has been a tradition in my family since I can remember. My Uncles would come up every first day and fish our stretch. Well fish one hole Because they were all so drunk to move. Some have now passed and I make it my job to keep the tradition going. I finally got my father to come back down and trout fish the same spot this year. He has since retired and has nothing else to do. But it amazes me at the older folks how they think the fish commish just dumps trout in and you catch them. When ya catch wild trout on Clarks it just reminds me how lucky I have been to have it in my front yard. I will do nothing less for my kids as my dad did for me.
