

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : need opinions

Re: need opinions

Author: : Chooch

Date: : 2013/3/21 21:54:48

URL:

If you are asking for opinions I will give mine. Looks good for bodies but not for wings. Actually, it is not the way it looks but more how it will function. I feel wings are somewhat overrated on smaller flies to begin with but that material looks way to stiff to use as a wing. I feel it will twist tippet when casted. I tie some cut wing patterns for olives. In an attempt to make them a little tougher I coated the wings with a very thin coat of flexament. Tied a batch of flies. The damn things twisted my tippet like crazy so I tossed them. I would really test them out before I market that material as a winging option.