Thanks. I just looked at the map link and it looks like what I saw yesterday although there are now signs that I never saw before in stretches that I always thought were special reg water. I also asked a local guy who knows the stream and he said they were all pissed about the reduction of the area. There was a VERY prominent sign that read "End of Special Reg Area" which was never there before and then multiple signs on trees stating that this water was ATW. All I can say is that I was surprized.

H-A, I parked at the Seiderville Bridge, so not so long a walk. Although I did walk downstream to the 78 bridge and the swimming hole.
