In business don't trust anyone and if someone claims you can trust them and they truly mean it, they will sign a legal confidentiality/non-compete agreement, which affirms they can be trusted. If they won't and play mister nice guy with the old line of, "Trust me.....you can trust me," bend over and get ready because there's a reason why they won't sign anything – it's because they don't want to be held to anything and they can't be trusted.

That said, if you are looking for a tester, consider me. Unlike others who say they can be trusted, I mean it when I say I can be trusted because I am trustworthy. And you can trust me on that.
