Faith in the bugger's an odd thing. Just like any fly, you've got to fish it often to catch fish on it.

Here's my recommendation to you (keeping in mind that it might not be applicable in any way)

Next season when the water's high or the weather sucks and you are about to go do whatever it is you do when the fishing's bad... go tough it out and fish a dark bugger for a few hours.

Your faith will grow my friend.

For buggers, fish em low and slow. Either dead drifted or on a swing.
