Hi everyone, thank you SO much for your recommendations, we really appreciate it! I called Mike and he was very nice (and available, phew!), so we are now looking into whether we can take time off to make the trip out. I have really enjoyed reading through all the various posts and love that the enthusiasm for the sport really shines through, whether you're helping out a novice or a tourist, or getting into the details of equipment and knots. Thank you all so much for your help, it is invaluable and much appreciated!

And "azjackstraw", thank you for the comment, I took it as a compliment. Can't wait to go home to show my husband your note, I always tell him how lucky he is but he never seems to believe me. :) I organized fly fishing trips for us in New Zealand, Costa Rica, all over California, and just booked us for a week in Alaska for salmon fly fishing, but he says I do it b/c I like it just as much as he does. And I do, but still, I say he's pretty lucky haha. =)
