Hoping for some warmer weather (preferably sooner than later) and a chance to get out after some smallies. I never really tied any crayfish flies but knowing that they are one of the SMB's favorite, figure I better try to get a few into my WW fly box.

Here is what I came up with just using different materials that I had on hand to produce a generic crayfish pattern. I may make a few changes but overall I think it should fish fairly well. Any suggestions would be appreciated.
