I can remember many years ago, fishing the Buffalo Creek (an ATW) in Perry County with my son on a weekend family trip to the cabin. I was flyfishing the upper end of long pool and my son (probably 9 or 10 at the time) was fishing the deep mid section of the pool with worms and his spinning outfit. When I got back down to him a little before dark he had the entire bottom of a large Igloo cooler covered with some monster crayfish. I remember telling him if we were going to keep them we needed to eat them. He obviously had no problem with that! My wife on the other hand well she was a bit less than impressed with the number of crayfish that he happened to fool that evening. However, we did steam approximately two dozen large crayfish and with a bit of ketchup and horseradish sauce they really were not too bad. Oh, the memories!
