Sounds good. I am not familiar with the open-all-year regs, does this mean that there is no harvest from March 1 to opening day even though fishing is permitted?

Edit: answered my own question. From the PA code:

§ 65.19. Approved trout waters open to year-round fishing.

(a) The Executive Director, with the approval of the Commission, may designate waters as approved trout waters open to year-round fishing. The designation of waters as approved trout waters open to year-round fishing shall be effective upon publication of a notice of designation in the Pennsylvania Bulletin.

(b) It is unlawful to fish in waters designated as approved trout waters open to year-round fishing except in compliance with the following seasons and size and creel limits. It is not a violation of this section if a trout is immediately returned unharmed to the waters from which it is taken.
