PFBC license sales for 2012 are here:

http://fishandboat.com/images/admin/lars/fishlice\_county2012.pdf

The trout anglers under age 16, those who bought the lifetime license in previous years, and poachers, are not included in those numbers.

Then we'd have to guess at what percentage of trout anglers who are either committed to releasing all trout, or releasing all wild trout (and can consistently distinguish wild from stocked trout.)

So, how many anglers are there who would keep a legal sized wild trout if they caught one? I'll make a ball park, but IMHO conservative, estimate of about 350,000.
