So I decided to take the fishing gear for a car ride today and do some scouting since I'm relatively new to northeast PA. I drove most of the length of Bowman Creek from where it comes out of Mt. Spring Lake all the way to Tunkhannock. Its a really nice looking stream. Saw some natives up closer to where it comes out of the lake but saw no other activity at any of the other spots I stop at. I bump into a couple guys in the catch and release section that also said they saw zero activity or fish. Is this a put and take stream? Any info would be great since theres so much new water for me to explore I don't want to waste my time.

Thanks bStone
