Agree with PennKev. You need to have tippet with you.

But examine the leader. If using a store bought leader, it likely has tippet built in. You may not need to add any off the bat.

But as Penn Kev says, you'll start eating some of that away with fly changes, snags, etc, and it'll need replaced. You may want to lengthen or shorten for presentation purposes. You may want to cut back and replace with larger tippet if you're gonna use streamers, or cut back and replace with finer tippet if you wanna use tiny dries.

Having it on hand keeps you from having to replace a whole leader every time you want to change the tip!
