Dead fish usually do not float they sink to the bottom and unless you have a lake such as BS you will never know what happens to the fish after you release it. There is a current post on releasing fish and Dave had some very good thoughts. I am sure many were not handled in such a manner. The Yellowbreeches anglers do 3 or 4 kids fish derbys a year. Also almost 1/2 of the shows I do have a kids trout pond. If the main idea is about catching these are the type of programs I support for young children. Fellowship and teaching children to respect the out of doors is much more important than catching fish. There is a kids only area for one month on the lake at present is there a need for more? Also this area keeps our wco and deputies very busy. Ask them.
