Your proportions are quite good. Most modern fly fishers think of a Ep subvaria in the male or female sense and the fly patterns as Hendrickson or Red Quill. I believe the terms Dark Hendrickson & Light Hendrickson are somewhat archaic and not in general usage very much any longer. At least not with the fly fishers I know.

Ask fifty guys who tie to show you their rendition of these flies and you'll probably get fifty variations of the general theme.

Here is how I tie a Hendrickson & a Red Quill;
