My brother caught one with a hook and line in its mouth. I didn't see any floating though. I did see a lot of bait floating. I know where I fished it looked like a group had a big event tent set up with propane heaters, grill, and seats. I am not saying it is bad, it's just that they could have taken a bit less space so others could get some room on a small lake to begin with. I did see a lot of fish being caught but just 10 inchers and I did see 1 big 13.5-16 inch palamino that was caught. I think that the PFBC went for quantity not quality of fish when they stocked them. But most kids did have fun.
