I wouldn't worry about the reel. Muskys don't run from ya like most fish. they just bulldog, gator roll & shake ya. Most of the musky I have caught i stripped them in. I think I put two on the reel, I feel safer with bigger fish if the reel does the work.

Also as far as intermediates go with the airflo or there type3 sniper lines. The butter smooth and there running lines don't knot. And I would forget the floating really there's no need for them. Plus you can't find 1 that will load the echo 10 wt.
