Has anyone looke at the stress on the resource (fish bugs water streamside plants,etc), particularly in light of good streams where many comps are scheduled? Maybe each stream should have a limit on the number of comps in a given area.

Additionally, I get 1 saturday a month to fish and if I drive a few hundred miles I would probably fish around these guys, wouldn't want to intentionally mess anyone up but by the same token mytime is limited and I can't afford to stand around and wait/watch.
