

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : New World Record Striper?!?!?

Re: New World Record Striper?!?!?

Author: : Christian

Date: : 2013/3/26 23:04:33

URL:

I have no issue with killing it; landlocked stripers don't successfully spawn in the lake in question as far as I'm aware and that fish was nearing it's end of life anyway. There are only a few rare locations where freshwater stripers reproduce (A quick search showed only 4 confirmed lakes in the US). Most populations are maintained through fingerling stocking.