

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Yellow stone fly was all they would eat

Re: Yellow stone fly was all they would eat

Author: : osprey

Date: : 2013/3/27 5:40:17

URL:

There is a yellow stonefly that hatches later when it's warmer , but i've read about sub surface migrations of nymphs apparently to relocate not to hatch , perhaps you hit on one of those and there just happened to be mayflies hatching also? A net would have come in handy but i don't carry a net. Would have been interesting to know for sure.