

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Floating the Beaverkill

Re: Floating the Beaverkill

Author: : wbranch

Date: : 2013/3/27 13:48:54

URL:

Les wrote;

"I think Baxter House floats the lower B near the confluence, but I would think the regulars in the water from Silver Fox up to Junction would frown on floaters."

Well way down river on the BK there are far fewer fishermen in general. The bulk of the fly guys are always going to be found in the upper No Kill water starting at Barnhart's and the lower No Kill down in Horton.

But there are tons of trout throughout the open waters at least to a few miles below Cooks Falls. The lower river near the confluence with the EB is really wide and it should be relatively easy for a good boat man to go behind any wading angler. If that is not possible you must plan ahead so you can row over to the other side of the river before you get near the wader and just let the boat float through without rowing, just feather the oars to steer the boat straight.