A small light and magnifying glass. A foam patch to stick flies to let them dry would be good.

You should also make sure the vice has interchangeable jaws so the device can be used for salt and warm water flies. And make the storage areas modular so you can pull out the trout stuff and insert the salt stuff easily -that would really be awesome. And make provisions for a rotary drier because salt flies use epoxy heads and you need to dry the on a rotary drier to assure a nice head.

This may be more that envisioned but the more you can modularize the more add ons you can offer and more add ons means more revenue.
