I think Cabelas makes some decent quality gear for the price. I purchased my first Cabelas rod this spring. I bought a 9' 8 wt. Three Forks Rod and put an out of production Cabelas RLS reel on it. (couldn't resist the clearance price for a pretty good quality reel) Also, I put an SA Magnum Taper line on it and I am really happy with how it casts some larger flies. Hopefully with some decent weather I can tie into some big smallies, largemouth, carp or pike with it. I don't think you will be dissapointed with the Cabelas line of gear in their rod/reel combos. Too avoid some of the above mentioned issues: KEEP YOUR RECEIPT!
