No, but I'd guess you need to explain what you mean. To the extent that many streams are low right now, I have minimal concern, because the northern tier hasn't had run-off yet, the southern tier hasn't had any good rains. We are supposed to get rain Sunday and Monday, after that I may or may not be concerned. That depends on if we get rain and how much, the weatherman has been wrong this year more then he's been right.
