I have seen deft boars on the lower river below butternut grove (i think). Several times I've floated the last 1/2 mile and did see rising fish. If I did it 15 times, only once did I see an angler. I think it could be done on the lower section but access might be tough. I'm sure there's some very nice water that sees little pressure. In 25 years, I did see a guy in a kayak come down through Carins pool. Let's just say it didn't go well and think that boater never did that again....at least not in the heart of the spring hatches.
