I'm guessing you are being saracastic but maybe not so I will answer anyway. For the most part I do have blinders but one of the reasons I flyfish is for the solitude and peace and quiet I get while fishing. Now solitude on the BK is rare but if more people showed respect for other fisherman everyone's time on the water would be more enjoyable and if you have ever fished the upper BK you would know why it would not be a good decision to float with a drift boat.

I guess what I am saying is I don't really care what you do but if you're impacting my time on the water then it's hard to just have blinders on. Some places you have to expect certain things and other places you shouldn't. I've learned for the most part when and where those rules should apply.
