Sandfly,

That's probably due to limited access, not many public fishing rights and a-holes that scream if you touch "their streambed". It also happens to be my place to go if I want to be left alone.

J & free,

I remember a post on the catskill board once where guys were going off about ringing cell phones or people talking on cell phones while in the Beaverkill & Willow. They felt it was rude and taking away from their experience. In some ways, I can almost agree. People have become quite rude, inconsiderate and it's "all about me". That is exactly why I float. To get away from everyone if possible. :)
