Considering I was there I offer the following...

The WCO asked two fly fishermen to move from the ATW water they were "illegally" fishing and he directed them to the TT special reg section. He gave them warnings for not knowing where they were, but I assume this outcome may have been different if correct signs had been in place.

There was a long discussion about the upstream boundary of the TT section and the WCO made it clear where this boundary is located. He then posted signs. Based upon what he says he extended the TT area by a pool.

Sal, I like you and your posts, but, during the interaction, one of the FF'men admitted that he knew the signs were misplaced. He even told the WCO what FF'man took signs up the creek and posted them in an effort to extend the TT section.

The WCO took the information and said he was going to follow up.
