

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : fishermen ever see a fisher?

Re: fishermen ever see a fisher?

Author: : mike_richardson

Date: : 2013/3/29 8:21:46

URL:

They are more and more common in SW PA. They are very mean. Their main prey choice is a porcupine. I believe a few of them were introduced in the area to help control the porcupine population. They are cool to watch. I believe they are similar to the pine martin, as well.

They are not extremely rare but i believe you need a specail tag for them to trap them and they have a relatively short trapping season.