I volunteer to help bucket/float stocking in NJ, and it does help spread fish out. The problem is getting volunteers on a consistent basis. You have to be there before the hatchery truck shows up 100% of the time or you impact the hatchery truck schedule. Can't be a now and again situation - have to make a commitment. We have one guy who has a transfer tank on a pick-up that allows dozens of places the big trucks can't get to to be stocked.
