In the first place, Peterm clearly states that he was fishing the spec. regs. catch and release section of the Bushkill, not some section where the masses usually show up bent on catching their limit to the complete disregard of others. Usually, catch and release sections are almost devoid of other anglers on opening day, and if Peterm was there first and was not himself encroaching on anyone else, he had the right to stand or wade anywhere he pleased. Under almost no situation could I imagine that the guy who moved in and started fishing that close on a c & r section would be justified. On a bait section you would almost expect that kind of behavior, not on a c & r area.
