

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Ribbing on nymphs

Re: Ribbing on nymphs

Author: : BradFromPotter

Date: : 2013/4/2 10:00:32

URL:

Quote:

mike_richardson wrote:

I find myself being partial to using vinyl rib on my larger hair/fur nymphs hair/fur instead of gold ribbing or wire. I think it gives it more of a natural look.

Has anyone seen more success with using wire for these as well. I typically like my nymphs to be "buggy" with guard hairs exposed. I found when ribbing with wire, even larger diameter it gets lost in the fur.

If you're using wire or vinyl that's too large for the fly you're tying you're going to trap many of the guard hairs. I use wire all the time & never have trouble getting my larger nymphs buggy.