

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Lehigh River

Re: Lehigh River

Author: : BeastBrown

Date: : 2013/4/2 19:47:41

URL:

Did anyone fish it after the large heat waves in July and August? Encountered goods fish counts? In 2011/2012 years there were plenty of wild browns from high water in 11 that were doing great. They were far away from stocking sites from LRSA or FC and they were wild for a fact. I found a lot of wild browns in 2012 when the water was super low this year last time.

I see there are fishing releases on Lehigh this year, lol. Doesn't look like it will solve the thermal issues and holding a lot more water back at all. The rafting lobby is strong it seems. Are there 3 companies or 4? Hope they wash those boats well if they use them in the Delaware with Didymo.

Remember to fill out those reports cards on your WILD brown and NATIVE Brook trout catches in the Lehigh. Seems like with the threat to native brook trout habitat from fracking the Lehigh could be quite the sanctuary with its many tributaries for our native fish.