I would read the wader shoot out....it will give you a summary of high and low points on all the waders tested.

I have a pair of Redington Sonics that I got on clearance from Backcountry.com.....they are going into their 3rd year of use and have no leaks so far. I have probably 60-70 days in them and I usually beat the crap out of them.

It seems like most everything else you get what you pay for, but I would pay close attention to the number of layers on the leg/seat, zip functions, and extras like hand warmers, pockets, etc. It is all dependent on what you want or think you will use. I wouldn't pay $400 for 3 layers of Gore-Tex when you can find 5 layers of other waterproof material with extras for the same or less.
