Will glow in the dark flies actually work?

Just a thought I had after I picked up some glow in the dark thingamabobbers.

If i were to pick up glow in the dark material or paint, would the trout actually be able to see them better? Just wondering if anyone knew how the trouts night vision would work. Would they see this as a bright glowing object or see it just the same as a white fly.

I have read that the last color they can detect before dark is red, so I was wondering if they can distinguish any colors at night or not.

Thanks in advance,
Mike
