I just sent my Diamondback back to Cortland for the second time. The first time was in '02, I believe. It was broken again in '03 but I just got around to sending it back last week. Both times resulted in quick turn around and no questions asked.

On this occasion, I sent it in Friday and got it back today with a new tip section. I've been very impressed with their service. Hopefully I can keep it in one piece from here on out. I think the first time that I sent it in the fee was only $10 or $15. It is now $30 which is still reasonable.
