Seems to me nobody seems to think stream enhancements and water quality are part of the equation.....

I don't recall anyone stating that. We've simply been discussing another topic, i.e. fisheries management.

Water quality, physical habitat restoration, riparian buffers, etc. are also important topics. But just different topics than the one we've been discussing.

The fact that people are discussing topic A does not imply that they think topic B is unimportant.

We've had plenty of threads on habitat restoration, water quality etc. on here, so there is plenty of interest in those topics.
