Pros and Cons of each..

Wordpress - More customizable, wider variety of templates, preferred more by advanced bloggers. Downside is you really have to be good with Java/PHP/CSS to really customize it the right way. You'll also get less traffic out the gates.

Blogger - Less customization options, but much easier to do basic customization. if you're coding isn't that great, this is the way to go. You also get more traffic since it's owned by Google.

I'd suggest starting with Blogger. You can always import it to Wordpress later down the road once you cut your teeth. Feel free to hit me up with any questions, I'd be more than happy to help, and I know it can be overwhelming to get it set up correctly out the gates.
