

---

Subject: : Fly Fishing Events and Meet-ups

Topic: : Little J trip next Friday

Little J trip next Friday

Author: : mike_richardson

Date: : 2013/4/5 11:51:01

URL:

I will be hitting up the Little J next Friday with some friends. I was wondering if any other PAFF members will be out on this water as well. Through my research I found there is a lot of caddis in that stream. I plan on stock piling some caddis and stone clinger flies for that day. Hatch charts for April reference hendrickson, BOW, Red quill, and tan caddis. I am assuming that the only one coming off this early will be the BWO, but might get lucky if the temps warm up the water.

What other flies work well on this water?

Do you have success with wet flies on this stretch or mostly nymphs and streamers?

My main plan is to drift some larger flies with, caddis, BWO nymph, and pheasant tial droppers.

I will also tie up some leeches and buggers, for larger trout and small mouth.

Is there a decent ammount of crayfish on this water as well.

Without blatant spot burning, where are some decent spots. Or at least parking spots, I can find decent water. I have only fished this one time when I was young.

Thanks in advance for any tips.