Is this the group that has the "traveling rod" that gets passed to a selected member? If it is, I went to the big dinner / auction a few times in the 80's. The last one I attended with my fly fishing girlfriend. I was asked not to return because I had brought a woman to their banquet. So.....I won't be supporting that mindset.

Ummm, probably no. At least not currently. It's a museum organization with open membership and nothing on their webpage indicates that they exclude women. In fact there are pictures showing women at their auction. It's the same group that does the Heritage day event at Allenberry which I have attended with my wife.
