I've been using the PA delorme to find remote streams for many years. It's got plenty of detail for that, and I really don't think any better topo maps are needed IMO.

As for streams - or sections of them - being posted, well that's part of the game. But you can still pretty much assume that any stream running on public land - state forest or park etc. - would not be posted.

There are definitely many WT streams open to fishing
