

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Giant tiger trout in PA? Who'd a thunk it?

Re: Giant tiger trout in PA? Who'd a thunk it?

Author: : Chaz

Date: : 2013/4/6 12:02:05

URL:

Quote:

geebee wrote:

Quote:

krayfish wrote:

I guess they live in places where we'd never expect them.

or pass through those places on the way to spawn...

there's a video on youtube of a fly guy catching a sea run brown on your river, so i for one believe you.

mind you, i WANT to believe you LOL.

I'm not sure of the first fish, the middle fish is a tiger, the 3rd fish is a brown.

However, hybrids are sterile and cannot reproduce, so that rules out moving to spawning areas unless they were along to chase the spawn.

PFBC does not stock tiger trout or so they say, but I saw some fish that I though were tigers being stocked from a PFBC truck that looked like tigers.