I recall a "test" involving 20 questions on the old Virtual Flyshop website (flyfisherman magazine I think) Anyway one question answer was that trout are repulsed by nicotine and attracted to chocolate cookies. So I always eat a cookie after putting in a cope. J/K, but I always think about it after putting in a dip. I still catch fish though. So I don't care. I do however "reward myself" with a chew after the first fish rather than starting out with a dip.
