

Subject: : Fly Fishing Events and Meet-ups

Topic: : PA Fly Fishing Museum Grand Opening

Re: PA Fly Fishing Museum Grand Opening

Author: : tomitrout

Date: : 2013/4/7 20:49:41

URL:

Stopped in after work Friday as things were packing up, then again Saturday morning to take in more of the displays. It's a great little assemblage of trout harassing history, nice to finally see some of Marinaro's rods and gear. PA is rich in it's flyfishing heritage, more so than you may think, really gives you a greater appreciation for those that have come before us. Some nice tackle and gear on display, the opening festivities were nice, picked some brains about net & cane rod building and got to waggle some nice sticks. If only the bank account went deeper...

Then caught the late morning grannom hatch down on the Breeches, Hendricksons didn't quite turn on before I left around 3pm, but I'd had my fill of the crowded creek by then. Brought 6 or so to hand with a grannom on top, nicest was a full bodied wild brown pushing 14", a satisfying catch in the stocked C&R water, good times.

Highly recommend you check out the museum when you're in the area.